Introduction

The Telecommunications Regulatory Authority is pleased to publish 2nd Edition of this brief report (Tariff Digest) regarding the tariffs of telecom services in Oman. It is important to highlight that this digest does not cover the promotional tariffs owing to the reason that the promotional tariffs are short term offers, which change quickly. This report captures only standard or regular offers of the service providers. The main objective of publishing this digest is to assist the consumers in making comparison of different offers and to enable them choose a tariff plan or service provider, which suits the most to their needs. We expect this initiative will enhance transparency of tariffs because many subscribers do not have access to the required information before subscribing to a data service as such information is usually published on service provider's websites.

The information provided in this digest is based on the offers published by service providers on their websites. The information is in comparative format; however, the order of listing is random without any criterion. Important notes have been added to each tariff sheet to make the relevant tariff conditions clearer to the users.

The TRA tries its best to ensure accuracy of the information provided in this report. The actual tariffs may change while this digest is in process of publication. Therefore, the users of this digest are advised to perform their own due-diligence and enquire about any element or condition of a tariff if they are not clear about it. TRA cannot assume responsibility for any loss, damage, and cost or expense whether direct, indirect, or consequential, sustained or suffered by any person using or relying on this information whether caused by reason of any inaccuracy, error, omission or misinterpretation.
